

ANISHA

ACCIDENTAL DETECTIVE

MAKE YOUR OWN DOOR HANGER

Solving crimes can be hard work!
Problem solve in peace from the comfort of your bedroom with your very own Accidental Detective door hanger. Simply colour in the hanger, cut it out and hang on your door!

Don't forget to ask an adult for help when using the scissors.

Laugh-out-loud fun by
SERENA PATEL
Illustrated by Emma McCann

HOW TO SOLVE THE MYSTERY IN 6 QUESTIONS

Laugh-out-loud fun by
SERENA PATEL

Illustrated by Emma McCann

Have you just started reading Anisha, Accidental Detective?
How do you think Anisha is going to solve the case?

To find out who did the crime, detectives often have to ask a lot of questions.
Can you narrow down your list of suspects using these 6 mystery solving questions?

Fill in the suspects as you go!

SUSPECT EXAMPLE:

1. WHO do you think did the crime?
2. WHAT crime have they committed?
3. WHY do you think they did it?
4. WHEN did it happen?
5. WHERE were they at the time of the crime?
6. HOW did they do it?

SUSPECT NUMBER 2:

1. Who?
2. What?
3. Why?
4. When?
5. Where?
6. How?

SUSPECT NUMBER 3:

1. Who?
2. What?
3. Why?
4. When?
5. Where?
6. How?

SUSPECT NUMBER 4:

1. Who?
2. What?
3. Why?
4. When?
5. Where?
6. How?

SUSPECT NUMBER 5:

1. Who?
2. What?
3. Why?
4. When?
5. Where?
6. How?

SUSPECT NUMBER 6:

1. Who?
2. What?
3. Why?
4. When?
5. Where?
6. How?

Psst, detectives! For more fun activities head to Usborne.com/Anisha

CREATE YOUR OWN SECRET CLUB

Laugh-out-loud fun by
SERENA PATEL

Illustrated by Emma McCann

In Anisha, Accidental Detective: Granny Trouble, Anisha enlists the help of the SHSG, which stands for The Secret Hindu Society of Grannies. Their motto: no one notices a granny!

"Think of the last time you went to the supermarket or the post office or the park. Nobody notices a kindly old granny sitting on a bench. You think she's just having a little rest, maybe, or enjoying the fresh air. Wrong! She is most likely conducting surveillance, watching out for any trouble. People think once we get past a certain age we are useless, only good for rolling the roti or folding washing. But we grannies decided that between us we have the best knowledge of what goes on in our own neighbourhoods and that intelligence should be put to good use. The SHSG is a secret network of crime stoppers!"

What would your secret society do?

- Can you think of a name? Highlight the first letter of every word to make your acronym...
- What will your secret club's motto be?...
- Where will you meet and what will you do?...
- Design a logo...

CREATE YOUR OWN GRANNY DISGUISE

Laugh-out-loud fun by
SERENA PATEL

Illustrated by Emma McCann

In Anisha, Accidental Detective: Granny Trouble, Anisha enlists the help of the SHSG, which stands for The Secret Hindu Society of Grannies. Their motto: no one notices a granny!

Imagine you're on a stake out with the SHSG, and draw yourself in your granny disguise.

What are you wearing?

What props can you hide behind?

How will you blend into your surroundings?

Most importantly,
what snacks will
you have to hand?

